Wicked Eeyore You guys were awesome at the Rebel Lounge! Teagan White's art introduced me to your beautiful music.

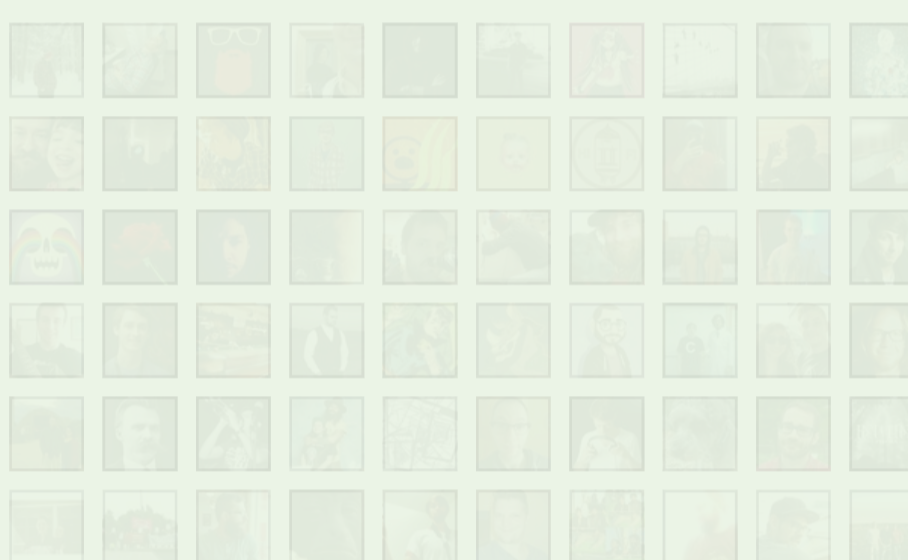

Listen for Words It has been an absolute privilege watching this band grow. Bar none my favorite act to come out of the emo revival. The expansion of their sound from record to record has come without a misstep. They'll have a fan in me while they remain a band, and even when they are no longer a band. Can't wait to see them live in Durham! Favorite track: Grand Paradise.

Troy Barrington I don't know what other people have been saying about this, but I love it. It took me a few plays to sink in. It was hard to pick a favorite. It reminds me of M83's Hurry Up, We're Dreaming which holds a special place in my heart. Favorite track: Five Cups.

Max Woolf This is such an evolution from a band that already proved its mastery of the brooding, funky, emo aesthetic. Foxing cultivated over Dealer and Albatross. I truly hope this band gets the recognition it deserves for this ballsy, ambient, and fresh as hell collection of tracks.

Jeffrey Owen Constant growth culminating in a mature slobber knocker of a record that highlights equal part growth equal parts amazing production. The loss of Josh is a footnote that does not slow down Foxing from pressing on full speed ahead. Gameshark sounds like LCD and Nick Cave were jamming and Conor hopped on and destroyed the vocals. Adventurous, polished and ready for its close up. Nearer My God is the record that will shake the emo tag and they will just be referred to as a great band. Favorite track: Gameshark.

Alexander Tome No words for this song... Foxing's best work wrapped into one spectacular track! Favorite track: Won't Drown.
