I need to ask my parents if this little girl named Debbie was a real person or my imaginary friend. I specifically remember playing with her on my sit-n-spin in my room when I was like 2 or 3. For some reason, I don't think she was real when I think back, but I can remember SEEING her. I was an only child for my first 5 years & didn't have friends outside of a couple of cousins for a long time. I was a very haunted child, so I wouldn't doubt I was playing with some ghostly being. Gives me a chills thinking about it.

This reminds me of that thread I found not too long ago about a guy who had all these very weird and strange memories of a friend he had when he was a kid. He wasn't sure what to think because he believed other kids and his parents had seen this kid as well, at least as he thought they did. But the kid would just randomly show up in the middle of nowhere and was mostly always naked. Like he would be walking through the woods alone and this naked kid would step out from behind a tree or he would be swimming in the creak then turn around to find the naked kid would just be standing there on the creak bed.

Kid never mentioned anything about where he lived or who he lived with. Kid also did not go to the local school or was ever seen in the town. He had same strange behaviors but they were looked over due to being such a great friend. I think the kid didnt have much knowledge about common household things or world events, which prompted the guy to wonder if his friends was a ghost or time traveler?

He would also disappear for smaller chunks of time and then reappear like he was never gone. These two were best friends and then one day the kid was just gone. Never heard from again.

So the guy, who was now an adult, made a post about him to see if he was actually real and if he was to hopefully get into contact. Turns out the kid was real! IIRC, someone in town knew the kids aunt or some shit like that. That person gave him the phone number to the kids sister. Though he had never mentioned a sister before.

Him and his sister apparently led a very isolated life with their extremely abusive father. Basic homeschooled and was not allowed to ever leave the house. The kid found a way to sneak out of the house when his father would leave, which is why he would just randomly show up at times. I think he didn't want to get his clothes dirty since that would be obvious he went outside, therefore he was naked when he left the house.

I think Dad was super paranoid and super religious, one of those people who think the devil is in everything and everywhere. So the tv was the Devil, which is why they never had one or even had watched tv. And the town had demons which is why they never went there. They moved around a lot. Which is why he would be gone for a few weeks then show back up for few months, then leave again and then come back again. Eventually they left and just never came back.

Unfortunately many years later when that kid was a teenager I believe he had killed himself. But I want to say he kept these journals where he would write about how OP was his best friend and how he imagined moving away from his dad with OP. The sister kept them, and gave some to OP, and told him how her brother would constantly talk about his best friend in the entire world, even after they moved away and years later.
