In the French elections, given the choice between progressives who want to increase taxes on the rich, or right-wing extremists who are viciously anti-immigrant, the pro-business "centrist" party of Macron just couldn't make a choice. There's a lesson to be learned here.

I don't know if you know this, but Sanders isn't the president, and is in fact a senator, and as a senator he can't even get the rest of the senate to not sell weapons to Saudi Arabia, then what chance does he have of freeing Assange via political means
