Knew this would happen (again). This is why we can't have nice (or dog-forbid different) things. 😞
I'm not angry, I'm just disappointed (in some so-called "fans") 😞

What was the backlash about? The styling?

Here's the link with the comments (before they got locked).
But yeah, that's all it's ever been about really...

What's wrong with people... I'm looking forward to that sequel regardless of what haters are hating on.

Why does the media of my childhood attract such toxicity and negativity... I'll never understand it. I love the look of the originals, but times change... it isn't the 90s anymore jeez. 😞

I do think the bad persons are a very minor percentage of players, but unfortunately those guys are commenting the most, and one bad comment equals ten good comments in people's minds too...
I hope each trailer will not be followed by « hey, remember this is just a game! » soon

Agreed - it's only human to hear the negative more than the positive (even if the ratio is not even).
Sadly, if this statement is to be believed, we are unlikely to get further RtMI trailers (unless you meant for OTHER games - coz yeah, this is kinda setting a precedent here)

I absolutely love the art direction because it's so original, beautiful and it goes outside the usual disney or anime style. If "fans" can't stand it they might as well make their own unoriginal conservative missing-the-point version if they need the same thing again and again.

What wasn't original, beautiful and outside of the usual disney or anime style in the previous titles?

Why do people feel the compulsion to shit on everything positive?
