

Blake Montgomery @blakersdozen

The tool Elon used to calculate bots on Twitter listed his account as a likely bot.

gizmodo.com Twitter Obliterates Elon Musk's Excuses for Killing Buyout Deal Twitter called Musk's claims "factually inaccurate, legally insufficient, and commercially irrelevant."

1:00 PM · Aug 5, 2022 · Twitter Web App

877 Retweets 197 Quote Tweets 5,497 Likes

Reply Retweet Like Share icons

Brian Dunn @BrianDu29572478 · 2h Replying to @blakersdozen Just write that check, Elon, and get on with your life.

Hispanic! at the Dystopie @apathybronson · 1h He can't. He doesn't really have the money he just has Tesla stock that pretty highly valued at the moment. Which would obviously change if he sold a large chunk of it to pay off Twitter.

Noble Prize in Sarcasm @rewegreatyet · 2h Replying to @blakersdozen It has a point...

Maenad Mayhem @maenad_as_hell · 1h How does this have 159k likes william kotek @TwoBtw · 2h Replying to @blakersdozen and @rewegreatyet I'd be more convinced if it listed him as a tool

PISTA STRONG @Ana21Ana211 · 2h Replying to @blakersdozen @elonmusk would agree, he's a #LoveMachine...

youtube.com MIRACLES - LOVE MACHINE.mp4

Today's Dilemma @DilemmaTodays · 2h Replying to @blakersdozen Someone is falling off grace.

Wild Geerters @steinkobbe · 1h Replying to @blakersdozen Makes sense since most of his account is reposts of stolen memes which you can easily program a bot to do and will look like bot behaviour to an AI

Gluon liberation front @AethyrRY · 1h ok , new take: "Elon was actually successful at building a robot with AI. The AI became perfectly sentient, killed him and has been impersonating him ever since"

Leslie @love2laugh4ever · 1h Replying to @blakersdozen and @IndivisibleTeam