As far as I can see all flights on the picture are internal Russian flights... What exactly are you trying to say here?

People fleeing the country for fear of being dragged into the war after the recent Putin speech.

Did you base this on the cropped photo?

Apparently they're rushing in some new law to fine or imprison people who appear to be fleeing the country to avoid "partial" conscription. Yet more nuanced reaction from the master strategist.

For context, Russia flight activity is -20% on 2019 levels (similar rates to Europe, with exception of Ukraine where it is 0%). This may account for higher load factors. #JustSaying (Didnt oligarchs escape to Istanbul & Dubai six months ago?)

If they don't want to fight than they should change their government.

They should not be allowed to flee and leave the problem for others.
