Excellent size

Reviewed in Saudi Arabia on 16 March 2024

I really like the size of this touchpad. It's more like a laptop's which means it's easier to set on your desk than a regular standalone touchpad. Gestures are very precise and I've gotten used to the rough texture.

Nice touchpad just the right size for ergonomic keyboard

Reviewed in the United States on 2 April 2024

Verified Purchase

I wanted something to relieve arm strain from using a mouse all day at work. I use an ergonomic keyboard where the keys on left and right side are slanted away from each other which leaves some space between my hands on the wrist wrist of the keyboard. This touchpad fits nicely between my hands and allows me to switch from typing to mousing with little shoulder movement. I double sided taped the velcro backing to the wrist pad to make sure the position worked before attaching the velcro pad as I'm sure I could never get it off the keyboard. I decided to attach it to a folded board/plastic of some kind with the base under the keyboard and a fold over the wrist rest because the wrist rest is curved and so I can move the touch pad around or even to a different computer.

However the cable seriously gets in the way. I wish this had bluetooth or at the very least a low-profile, flat cable.
