The Direct: "You are also in 'From' which is a wonderful show, and fans are on the edge of their seats waiting for the release of Season 4. What can you tease about how long they're gonna have to wait before they get to see how the story progresses?"

Catalina Sandino Moreno: "I don't know exactly. I think it's coming out March, [maybe] April. But it's coming out. It's a great season. You're gonna love it. I enjoyed so much working on that show. It's fun. Again, it's fun to watch."

A March or April release date for From means that it will arrive on MGM+ over a year after the end of Season 3.

A March or April 2026 release date for From emphasizes a faster turnaround time for the series, as production wrapped in November 2025. It's possible that MGM+ prioritized the quicker delivery due to From's massive popularity.

Moreno's character, Tabitha, was a crucial part of From Season 3's cliffhanger because of a massive revelation that would change everything for the series. As it turns out, the finale confirmed that Tabitha is a reincarnation of Miranda (Victor's mother from the 1970s cycle), meaning that she was already part of the town alongside Jade (who was revealed to be Christopher, Miranda's husband).

At one point in the past, Jade and Tabitha's original selves were married to each other, and they failed to save their daughter from the ritual that made the town's citizens immortal, becoming the monsters that have been terrorizing the cursed town.

month gap between From Seasons 2 and 3. The Season 2 finale premiered on June 25, 2023, while the Season 3 premiere was released on September 22, 2024. If it arrives in March 2026, then there is only a gap of 15 months (the Season 3 finale premiered on November 24, 2024).

Releasing the first footage could also drum up anticipation for the series, as it has the potential to lead to more engaging fan discussions and theories.
