Humanoid Phantom MK-1 soldier robots have been delivered to Ukraine to evaluate their effectiveness.

The company Foundation told Time that two robots were sent to Ukraine in February.

Ukraine has become the world's main testing ground for weapons manufacturers, including Western startups.

Among such companies is the American company Foundation, which plans to deploy the Phantom robots to the front line to refine the technology.

Company co-founder Mike LeBlanc says that what he has seen in Ukraine has only strengthened his belief in the value of humanoid soldiers.
