I'd like to have a copy of that (mostly for the commercial demos)

Thanks, this is very useful!

I've been tearing out my hair trying to find early 90ies unix software (I really want to equip my old unix machines with contemporary software, the way I would have done back then). Even opensource stuff from that time has become really hard to find (!), anything commercial has essentially disappeared (with the companies that made it). The big ftp archives that we took for granted are gone, and except for the gnu and x11 contrib stuff, mirrors are somewhere between spotty and nonexistent.

Thanks again, this made my day.
