

← Post

Roger Hallam ✓
@RogerHallamCS21

Human extinction is now the main scenario.

As the UK passes 5 days of 35C or more before the end of June those of you who understand that  $2+2=4$ , regardless of what you want it to equal, may wish to remind yourselves of why human extinction is now the main scenario... meaning seeing (or rather feeling hot) is believing....

"2027 will likely soar to between 1.7°C and 1.8°C for the calendar year average."

"Permanently passing 2°C next decade now seems unavoidable."

"This places the planet squarely in the danger zone for a number of the great tipping elements including the West Antarctic and Greenland Ice Sheets, Boreal Permafrost abrupt thawing, Ocean Current disruption and Amazon collapse."

And this final quote requires translation into normal language...

"We can only hope that these upcoming systemic shocks finally jolt global leadership and the voting public into treating the crisis with the structural seriousness it demands."

"With structural seriousness it demands" means millions of people go on the streets and remove the regime - revolutions.

"The crisis" means billions of people die quick violent deaths due to social breakdown or slow agonising deaths due to starvation.

substack.com/home/post/p-20...

From drtomharris.substack.com

Don't miss what's happening

People on X are the first to know.

Log in

Sign up

 300

 426

 1.3K

 180

 Read 300 replies

Don't miss what's happening

People on X are the first to know.

Log in

Sign up