

RADARS

OPTIONS

* darker lines on the fan plots denote multiples of 20 range gates (~900 km)

+ auroral oval is estimated by the OVATION model hosted by NOAA

opacity correlates to the probability of viewing the aurora.

Pale grey shading denotes where at 250km in the ionosphere is in darkness.

- | | | | |
|--------------------------|-------------------------|------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| ▶ What is SuperDARN? | ▶ FITACF Data Download | ▶ pyDARN Online | ▶ Radar Info Tables |
| ▶ SuperDARN Canada | ▶ ASCII Data Download | ▶ Real Time Fan Plots | ▶ Radar Schedule |
| ▶ Personnel | ▶ FITACF Data Inventory | ▶ Real Time Summary Plots | ▶ Radar Coverage Tool |
| ▶ Media, Outreach & News | ▶ RAWACF Data Inventory | ▶ Real Time Convection Map | ▶ Interactive FOV |
| ▶ Shop | ▶ TDiff Calibration | ▶ Summary Plot Archive | ▶ Radar Control Programs |
| ▶ Importance | ▶ Metadata Inventory | ▶ Convection Map Archive | ▶ BYO Borealis Experiment |
| ▶ Tutorials | ▶ Data Server Status | | |
| ▶ PI Agreement | ▶ Data Access & Info | ▶ Fast Borealis Ionosphere Archive | |
| ▶ Working Groups | | | |

- ▶ Publications
- ▶ Theses
- ▶ Milestones
- ▶ External Tools & Links
- ▶ Engineering Dashboard
- ▶ 2021 Workshop Login

Institute of Space & Atmospheric Studies
Department of Physics & Engineering Physics
University of Saskatchewan,
116 Science Place, Saskatoon, SK, S7N 5E2

📞 +1 (306) 966-6445   