FAQ

1. Why is this not merged yet?

I'm not a maintainer and can not merge this. Please wait until a maintainer has come around to look into this.

2. This is merged, but I cannot find the image?

After this PR has been merged, more steps are to be taken, including an upstream merge on docker-library/official-images and subsequent image builds. For a full description of the timeline, please refer to <https://github.com/docker-library/faq#an-images-source-changed-in-git-now-what>.

fix: build FPM images on patched PHP 8.3.36 / 8.5.12 from source imorland/php#22

Merged

 ben221199 commented 26 minutes ago

Why is this not merged yet?

I guess because the CI is still running.

Speaking as a PHP release manager for 8.5: thanks for sending this!

Speaking as someone who uses the docker image to run their site: thanks for doing this!

[edit since people are tagging me in comments: I don't have merge access to this repository, I can't do anything here]

why dropping many rc versions in this PR ?

Because e.g. 8.5.12 supercedes 8.5.12-RC1. There is no 8.5.13-RC1 yet.

This waiting is just failure of supply chain :/ EVERYONE knew. Cloudflare can release WAF rules to mitigate, but noone in Docker can be prepared to merge this? WTF?

I hope there isnt any Skynet code hidden inside 8.5.12. 80% of the internet is getting this patch
